

SISTERS HAVE MADE ONE GRAND HIT ON THE STAGE; THEY HAIL FROM MOLINE, ILL.

Constance and Irene Farber.

"Two young New York girls have made one big hit."

New York's highest praise, claiming an actress as its very own, was thus accorded by a Gotham paper to Constance and Irene Farber, known in vaudeville as the Farber girls.

As a matter of fact the young women came from Moline, Ill. Down Moline way they were also known as the Farber girls, as they might have been known as the Jones girls or the Jiggs girls. Even as little tots they showed a fondness for the stage. No Elks' entertainment, no church sociable was complete without "the Farber girls."

Then the father died. The girls and Mrs. Farber came to Chicago. Constance and Irene
